

THE CROSS INN

— VILLAGE PUB —

N50:58:22 E0:32:08

Forged in the depths of the 15th century, The Cross Inn stands proudly in Staplecross, with a fireplace dating back to 1479.

Legend states the supporting beams which run over the fireplace and right side of the bar were part of a pair of sinking ships during the Spanish Armada in 1588. In the early 21st century the beams were carbon dated right back to the 16th century.

At the turn of the 19th century The Cross Inn consisted of three bars, the salon bar (left of bar), an off-licence (centre of bar) and public bar (right of bar) leaving behind uneven flooring and two fireplaces.

Today The Cross Inn offers a character filled snooker room, a rustic feel restaurant and bar all surrounded by a large beer garden.

THE CROSS INN
